

Top Ten Reasons

Why Employers Send Personnel to acadami Training

1. Reduced Company Risk

Students learn about industry best practices that promote compliance with regulatory requirements including customer data privacy and postal law.

2. Increased productivity and reduced waste

Industry standard methods and best practices are covered that lay out a proven roadmap for positive change, higher quality, and increased customer satisfaction.

3. Boost employee morale

Investing in employees results in motivated staff that promotes employee retention and a positive work environment.

4. Industry certification for graduates

Courses count towards Electronic Document Professional certification, and our one week Transaction Document School earns the Associate level (EDA).

5. HR professional development compliance

Meets corporate HR and education guidelines and can be funded through an organization's training budget.

6. Endorsement from major industry organizations

Corporations, large transaction-mail service bureaus, and government agencies use the program to train personnel.

7. Proven and vendor neutral material

Material is peer reviewed by industry certified experts and has been proven over many years of instruction.

8. Internationally recognized instructors

Consulting level skill averaging 30 years of experience each.

9. Small class size

Encourages interaction in the classroom.

10. Convenient

We bring the class to your location or a city near you.

"The course material, and the way it was presented, was excellent. It would be impossible to teach my team this amount of relevant information internally. In short, this is a must for all my staff."

VP Document Services
WW Financial Institution

"My people now develop more cost-effective solutions, make fewer mistakes, and take less supervision. The cost of training is trivial compared to the cost of inadequately trained staff."

Development VP
Large Hybrid Mail House

"Our reps provide much better support after graduating from the acadami program. Senior technical employees keep informed of new industry trends and developments via these courses. I recommend this program for any customer-facing or technically-focused staff."
